

God its Author

INTERPRETATION AN ESSENTIAL
ASPECT OF CREATURELY
FINITUDE, PART OF A
"GOOD" CREATION

Human receiver

Divine
Thoughts

Human Words

Autographs

Copies

Mistake
In the copyists or in the translators
probable

Translations

Reception &
Interpretation

Unconscious and Conscious Biases

- written by human hands
- expressed in the words of men
- embodied thought in human language
- imperfect expression of human language
- ideas in human language
- written by human men
- given in the language of men
- imbued with thoughts
- imperfect speech

- imperfections of human understanding of language
- perversity of the human mind
- prepossessions, prejudices, and passions

- everything that is human is imperfect
- infinite ideas cannot be perfectly embodied in finite vehicles of thought